

Send me these before the day

How many hours of event photography do you need?

Booking too few hours is the most common mistake I see. The part people cut is almost always the part they wanted.

HOURLY RATE

$200 per hour, two hour minimum

RIBBON CUTTING

$200 flat, next business day delivery

DELIVERY

3 to 5 business days, or 24 to 48 hours for $300

GALLERY

Private, hosted six months

- ☐ Run sheet with times, even a rough one
- ☐ The three or four photos that must exist afterwards
- ☐ Who the VIPs are and what they look like
- ☐ Any group photos you want, and roughly when
- ☐ Where I can park and which door to use
- ☐ Venue contact name and number for the day
- ☐ Whether there is a media wall or sponsor board to cover
- ☐ Any people who should not be photographed
- ☐ Where power is, if the room is dark
- ☐ What the photos are for, so I shoot the right crops

QUICK ANSWERS

What happens if the event runs longer than booked?

If I have the availability I stay, and the extra time is billed at the same $200 per hour. I will always flag it with you in the moment rather than after the fact.

Do you cover multi-day events?

Yes. Multi-day coverage is quoted rather than booked by the hour, because the useful hours are rarely evenly spread. Tell me the run of show and I will suggest where the coverage should sit.

How soon do I get the photos?

Edited images arrive in a private gallery within 3 to 5 business days. Rush delivery in 24 to 48 hours is available for $300, which is worth it when there is a press release or a social post...

Can you photograph and also take a group photo of everyone?

Yes, and it is worth scheduling it explicitly rather than hoping for a gap. Immediately before or after the main programme, while everyone is still in the room, is the reliable window.

ALSO COVERED IN THE FULL GUIDE

- 01 Work backwards from the moments, not the clock
- 02 Realistic timings by event type
- 03 The half hour before doors is worth paying for
- 04 What actually makes coverage run long
- 05 Straight talk about cost

Questions, or ready to book?

760-668-2125 · srecinosmedia@gmail.com
srecinosmedia.com · @stevenrecinos_events.cv

FULL GUIDE AT
SRECINOSMEDIA.COM/GUIDES